Dear Friends,

Necessity dictates I write my letter for the Parish News early in August, which means I have no idea what will be headline news when you read it. The world continues to feel very unstable and a confusing place. Meantime, the seasons roll on, the sun rises, the moon waxes and wanes and some things, dogs having to be fed and walked, never change. The English weather, true to its reputation, is cold and wet and so I am sitting here with a hot water bottle having made myself a hot chocolate to try to warm up! And, September is the start of a new academic year.

However, many Septembers come and go and however many years it is since I had children at school, this month will always speak to me of new beginnings; new shoes, new school uniform, gloriously pristine, at least for a few days anyway. I had four children and it used to take me ages to get them and their accompanying lunches, homework bags, PE kit and everything else ready for school; I remember getting up at the unearthly hour of 5.30 am to manage it all. Now, my grandchildren are at school and my son is in charge of the proceedings; how quickly those years have passed. As Paul Simon put it so succinctly in his beautiful song Leaves that are Green 'time hurries on'. Sometimes time hurries on in such way we seem unable to actually inhabit our days in any meaningful way, nor appreciate our surroundings.

I have written about the glorious countryside around us many times but I cannot help but refer to it again as we approach autumn, my very favourite time of year. There is something so magical about the way in which the season unfolds and deepens as the weeks pass. Below is an excerpt from a poem by Siegfried Sassoon. It is written from the perspective of a soldier in the trenches of the First World War, who, in the midst of utter horror, is dreaming of autumn in England:

He sniffs the chilly air; (his dreaming starts), He's riding in a dusty Sussex lane,
In quiet September; slowly night departs; he's a living soul, absolved from pain.

Beyond the brambled fences where he goes,
Are glimmering fields with harvest piled in sheaves,
And tree-tops dark against the stars grown pale;
Then, clear and shrill, a distant farm-cock crows; There's a wall of mist along the vale
Where willows shake their watery-sounding leaves,
He gazes on it all, and scarce believes, That earth is telling its old peaceful tale;
He thanks the blessed world that he was born.

There is such poignancy about Sassoon's reference to 'brambled fences' in the poem; the fences are part of his life in the trenches and are barbed wire pointers to hell, the brambled fences in the poem give way to 'glimmering fields' where 'the earth is telling its old peaceful tale'. We need to allow that peaceful tale to be told, and do all we can to make it a reality and thank the blessed world we were born.

With love and prayers,

Pauline

Longbridge Deverill Flower Show

In the middle of a rainy August, we had a sunny weekend to hold the eagerly anticipated Longbridge Deverill Flower Show, and we weren't disappointed! With the number of entries rising, the marquee was ablaze with colour and smells and a magnificent array of scarecrows (thanks to the newly sponsored Scarecrow Cup donated by the Crockerton Village Committee).

Nick Robins cleaned up again with the Bill Curtis Memorial Cup for Veg & Fruit & Eggs, the George & Mary Blagdon Cup for Flowers and the Deverill Valley Flower Show Cup for Highest Points. Lynn Creighton picked up The Woodham Cup for the Domestic Class and shared The Lipscombe Cup for Photography with Kip Crisp, who also won the new History Club Trophy for Historical photo in Parish. Kip also shared The Cock Inn Gardening Cup for Best in Show and Crockerton Scarecrow Cup with his family. The Rowland Cup for Handicrafts was shared between Jo Steptoe and Jerry White, while Kev Gray won The Wine Cup. The final new cup for Disasters was awarded to Claire Gray. In the children's classes Lottie Gray won The Dorothy Manning Cup with Bethany Dell and Reuben Kjaer coming 2nd and 3rd.

Meanwhile, in the main arena, we were once again treated to a wide array of entertainment from John the Jester, Springboard Gymnastics Display Team and The Whitehorse Morris Dancers, to the ever favourite Dog Show and Tim Davis' Digger Dancing. This year, we also witnessed the hilarity of a Hobby Horse Grand National and we foresee many entrants for this event next year.

The Longbridge Deverill Flower Show continues to raise money throughout the year with a Race Night and Karaoke Night. Don't miss out! Check the website for more details: www.longbridgedeverillflowershow.co.uk or find us on Facebook @longbridgedeverillflowershow

Upper Deverills Hall Fete & Dog Show

Despite a rainy start to the day the afternoon turned out fine and the village hall and field buzzed with activity. There was a lot of interest in the many exhibits entered into the various classes inside the hall and a great deal of fun at the stalls and watching the dogs being put through their paces outside! The delicious cream teas, which were served throughout the afternoon, were enjoyed by everyone.

I would like to single out a few people for special thanks - Cilla Stansfield for helping out with the setting up on Friday and Saturday, Tim Watts for running the Egg Throwing, Adam Watling and Mark Wilson for running the Welly Wanging, Anne Wiltshire and Sally Buchan-Jones for manning the book and bric-a-brac stall, Robert Shuler for providing his car for one of the attractions, David and Lorraine Croot for taking over the Dog Show this year which was a huge success. And all the members of the Village Hall Committee for their hard work and support. But the biggest thank you goes to all those who entered something into the Flower Show and came and supported the Fete - without them there would not be an event! After expenses about £500 was raised, which is amazing.

So many of you kindly gave cakes for the cake stall last year and I am asking if you could repeat your generosity this year. If you could make a cake and take it to Lakeside Garden Centre on the morning of the event or deliver it to me at 84 Monkton Deverill before 9.30 am that morning it would be wonderful. If this is not possible, I can always call to pick the cake up. Just ring me on 844920 to arrange a convenient time. Very many thanks for your support.

Wiltshire Wildlife Trust - Warminster Group

How time flies, it is almost time for our Autumn/Winter/Spring meetings to begin. We have, hopefully, put together an interesting programme for your enjoyment and further nature-wise education. It will include some favourite local speakers plus new ones from further afield; both, we hope, will produce some thought-provoking topics and new looks at familiar places/creatures, not to mention the usual wonderful photography. More details next month.

Nature Notes

I was beginning to think summer had gone because it was colder and wetter; it was feeling so autumnal. But now in mid-August when the sun comes out it is still lovely and warm and hopefully we can look forward to at least another month of summer. I am pretty sure that the house martins delayed having their second brood due to the cold snap. I can hear cheeping coming from at least one of the two nests just outside the office window. The second brood of swallows flew from the stables at the end of July; there were 3 possibly 4. I thought the adult swallows had now moved on, with the weather being so poor, but this morning when I went up to have a look 2 birds flew out and I am fairly sure they were the adult pair. If they were to successfully mate they could just fit in a third brood.

The honeysuckle has fallen silent today so that indicates all the house sparrow nests have fledged. There will be no more for this year now. There was another house sparrow nest just under the utility roof but it sadly failed. I found a fledgling late one afternoon on the ground just below, which I managed to revive and put back into the nest space (there were at least 2 more gaping beaks inside). The fledgling was not ready to leave the nest, I think it may have ventured further out of the roof space seeking an adult returning with food and fell down the drain pipe. I watched to see if the adults were still tending the nest but I didn't see any, although I could hear the youngsters cheeping still late into the evening. The following morning all was quiet. Whether the adults had just given up, which is unlikely, or more likely had become food for a sparrow hawk. However, I do know that particular nest had already raised 2 broods.

Even when it hasn't rained overnight the grass is still wet with the morning dew now. After a particularly heavy dew, I noticed a young great spotted woodpecker behaving oddly. Looking through the binoculars I realised it was bathing in the wet grass, wriggling around and splashing! In contrast when it was hot and sunny I spotted a group of house sparrows having a dust bath in the really dry patch under the shrubbery. Quite often you can see birds sitting still in full sun with their wings spread out, blackbirds especially, they are anting; sitting on an ant nest so the ants crawl over them. It is thought the formic acid the ants spray helps to rid the bird of feather parasites.

We have had a young green woodpecker visiting with a parent; the youngster is recognisable as its plumage is pale and streaked. It is difficult to see if the adult is male or female unless you spot the red stripe the male has both sides in its moustache. I was sure we had a deer about as the odd rose was being eaten overnight. I have now spotted the culprit in the early morning several times; a doe with a youngster in tow. The youngster is not, so far, able to spring over the garden fence so waits outside sometimes a bit anxious to be separated from mum.

The next meeting of the Council is on Wednesday 13th September, Upper Deverills hall, everyone is welcome to attend.

Recipe: Devonshire Scones

Preparation time: about 15 minutes

Ingredients: Makes about 20 scones

450g (1 lb) self-raising flour

75g (3 oz) butter, at room temperature

2 eggs

2 rounded teaspoons baking powder

50g (2 oz) caster sugar

about 225 ml (8 fl oz) milk

Method: Lightly grease two baking trays. Pre-heat the oven to 220°C/425°F/Gas 7.

Measure flour and baking powder into a processor, add butter and process until a crumble, add sugar; or by hand rub butter into flour using fingertips until mixture resembles fine breadcrumbs, stir in sugar. Beat eggs and make up to 300ml (1/2 pint) with milk, put 2 tablespoons of egg/milk aside for glazing. Gradually add egg/milk mixture to dry ingredients until a soft dough. The scones will rise better if the scone mixture is 'wet'. Turn the dough onto a lightly floured surface and flatten to a thickness of 1 - 2 cm (½ - ¾ inch). Use a 5 cm (2 inch) fluted cutter to stamp out dough, push cutter straight down and lift straight out to ensure scones rise evenly and keep their shape. Gently push remaining dough together, re-roll and cut out more scones. Arrange on prepared baking trays and brush tops with reserved beaten egg/milk mixture. Bake for about 10-15 minutes or until well risen and golden. Cool on a wire rack, covered with a tea towel to keep them moist. Serve fresh, cut in half and spread generously with strawberry jam and top with a spoonful of thick cream.
